Cemetery attendants have their yearly Medical Test

The Occupational Health Unit of the Seychelles Hospital has been buzzing this morning, with workers from the Burial Services who have reported to have their medical tests for the year 2021. The workers were happy and enthusiastic to know their health status and prepare themselves for opportunities and challenges for the upcoming new year 2022. The tests included routine ones amongst others. The workers welcomed the initiative, since most of them have never had a full medical test done before. Others did their last medical test more than 5 years ago.
